

SULTAN SHAHIN

❖ He is a renowned journalist, based in New Delhi, India. He is born in 1949 in a village in Bihar, India. There was no school to go to, so his father, an Urdu teacher and a Maulvi (religious teacher) taught him initially. He graduated from Patna University in 1972. He spent most of 1980s in London and travelled in Europe and North America extensively.

❖ For the last three years he was based in Paramaribo, Suriname, South America. He worked mainly as a freelance writer of opinion pieces for most Indian publications.

❖ His subject is South Asian politics, with special reference to Muslim politics, Islamic ideology and culture, India-Pakistan relations, and Hindu-Muslim relations.

❖ He has been writing columns for Asia Times online, (atimes.com) a Hong Kong-based website since 1999. At Present, he is running an Islamic website New Age Islam.